Multimedia Platform in Poland

"The Warsaw Voice" is an independent press magazine in English, prepared and edited by Polish and foreign journalists and editors. It has been present at the press market for 24 years as the basic source of reliable and systematic information about the events in Poland and in the Middle-Eastern Europe. The magazine is addressed to the English speaking people living in Poland and abroad. It is distributed to 64 countries. It covers a wide range of topics, delivering crucial information, analyzes and opinions. The general sections include: News – current events, political and social-economical analyzes; Voice Business – economical events and processes; Buzz – information about art and entertainment; Society – social phenomena and events; Communities – information from the social life of foreign communities. There are also regular supplements: Real Estate – information about the investment possibilities in Poland; Regional – sections promoting the economical potential of the Polish regions, e.g. The Wrocław Voice; National – sections discussing foreign investments in Poland and Polish investments abroad.

I am Małgorzata Opalińska, born 27th April 1988. I am studying journalism and French Philology at Jagiellonian University in Cracow. Since one year I am working at Silesian supplement of "The Warsaw Voice" as a journalist.
